

WILLIAM LANE CRAIG

William Lane Craig is Professor of Philosophy at Houston Baptist University and a Visiting Scholar at Talbot School of Theology. In 2016 he was named by The Best Schools one of the 50 most influential living philosophers. He has a popular apologetics website, www.reasonablefaith.org, and has more than 800,000 Facebook followers.

He earned a doctorate in Philosophy at the University of Birmingham, England before taking a doctorate in theology from the Ludwig-Maximilians-Universität München, Germany, where he was a Fellow of the Alexander von Humboldt-Stiftung for two years. Prior to returning to the United States he spent seven years at the Higher Institute of Philosophy of the Katholieke Universiteit Leuven, Belgium.

His new book is Atonement and the Death of Christ: An Exegetical, Historical, and Philosophical Exploration (Baylor University Press, July 1, 2020). In it, Craig presents a robust defense of what he calls a Protestant Reformation understanding of the atonement. Craig seeks to answer the question, "How is it that Christ's death atones for our sins?" His interdisciplinary investigation draws upon Old and New Testament studies, historical theology, and unique insights from the philosophy of law, especially the theory of punishment. He presents a multifaceted atonement theory with penal substitution as a central element, a theory he deems "both biblical and philosophically coherent."

He has authored or edited over forty books, including The Kalām Cosmological Argument; Assessing the New Testament Evidence for the Historicity of the Resurrection of Jesus; Divine Foreknowledge and Human Freedom; God, Time, and Eternity; and God and Abstract Objects. He has also written 200 articles in professional publications of philosophy and theology, including The Journal of Philosophy, New Studies, Journal for the Study of the New Testament, American Philosophical Quarterly, Philosophical Studies, Philosophy, and British Journal for Philosophy of Science.
