

The following scholars participated in the panel discussion which was part of the lecture weekend featuring Darrell Bock's lecture in Coping with Pluralism.

Darrell Bock - Executive Director of Cultural Engagement and Senior Research Professor of New Testament Studies. He has a PhD from the University of Aberdeen under I. Howard Marshall and did a Post doctoral studies at the Tuebingen University. He has written over 40 books and specialized in the study of Luke-Acts and the historical Jesus. He has a podcast called Table Podcast and serves of the Board of Wheaton College.

Vincent Bacote-Dr. Vincent Bacote is a Professor of Theology and the Director of the Center for Applied Christian Ethics at Wheaton College in Wheaton, IL. He is the author of Reckoning with Race and Performing the Good News: In Search of a Better Evangelical Theology (2020), The Political Disciple: A Theology of Public Life (2015), The Spirit in Public Theology: Appropriating the Legacy of Abraham Kuyper (2005), He is a regular columnist for Comment Magazine and contributes to other magazines.

Danny Carroll Rodas-Dr. Carroll is half-Guatemalan and was raised bilingual and bicultural. In his youth, he spent many summers in Guatemala and later taught at El Seminario Teológico Centroamericano in Guatemala City for thirteen years. The realities of Central America sparked Dr. Carroll's fascination with the Old Testament. In addition, his studies in English literature and literary theory have generated an ongoing engagement with literary approaches to the Old Testament and critical studies. Before coming to Wheaton, Dr. Carroll taught Old Testament at Denver Seminary for many years and founded a Spanish-language lay training program there. At Wheaton, he hopes to model a commitment to connecting careful biblical scholarship with the mission of the church as it engages today's complex realities. Dr. Carroll has been involved in Latino/a churches and teaching on the Bible and immigration for many years. His research focuses on the prophetic literature and Old Testament social ethics. He has recently published a major commentary on the book of Amos and a book on the prophetic voice for today. Currently Dr. Carroll is co-editing an extensive project on the state of Old Testament studies, in addition to working on a volume on Old Testament ethics. He also is the senior editor of a new Old Testament commentary series, The Bible in God's World (Wipf & Stock).

Daniel Hill-Daniel Lee Hill is an Assistant Professor of Christian Theology, joining the faculty at George W. Truett Theological Seminary in the fall of 2022. His primary research interests are in the field of theological anthropology, focusing primarily on figures in 20th century theology with an eye and ear toward the work of Swiss theologian Hans Urs von Balthasar. Of late, he is particularly interested in the dialogical relationship of human creatures and their contexts. Dr. Hill is the author of Gathered on the Road to Zion and is currently working on a manuscript, Gospel Freedom, that retrieves the insights of 19th century abolitionists in order to construct an evangelical account of public life.

Mark Lanier, Moderator-Mark Lanier is consistently recognized as one of the top civil trial lawyers in America. Best known as a zealous advocate for individuals in personal injury and product liability claims against major corporations, Mark brings passion, creativity and an unparalleled ability to connect with juries in courtrooms across the nation. Mark is also the founder of the Lanier Theological Library, one of the nation's largest private theological collections. He teaches a weekly, 700-plus-member Sunday school class focusing on Biblical literacy at Champion Forest Baptist Church in Houston. Mark is also the founder of the Christian Trial Lawyers Association.